

Evaluation of political actors (Satirical Shows)

AUTHOR

Dennis Lichtenstein, Cordula Nitsch

KEYWORDS

evaluation, political actor, personal traits, self-presentation, depiction, satirical show

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

The variable “evaluation of political actors” examines which criteria are addressed in satirical shows to evaluate political actors. Evaluations can be based on role-specific criteria of political actors or on jokes that are related to politically irrelevant aspects such as personal traits, self-deprecation, and stereotypes (Emde & Scherer, 2016; Lichtenstein & Nitsch, 2018). The variable is an indicator for a show’s humor conventions as well as for the way the show deals with political content. The unit of analysis is the joke, which targets a political actor.

FIELD OF APPLICATION/THEORETICAL FOUNDATION

This variable is used to analyze the extent of substantial political information in satirical shows. It is also used to compare different types of satirical shows (e.g., Late Night Comedy, news satire) or to assess the depiction of different political actors and whether or not they are embedded into different types of jokes.
